Screenings

The state of Kentucky requires that all kindergarten students take the Brigance test. This test covers many skills that lets us know if your child is kindergarten ready or not. We completed these assessments last week. This next week, we will also be visiting the computer lab to take a universal screener that will let us know what skills your child has mastered and what areas they need to grow in. I will go over both of these results with you at our conferences in October.
